Mr. CHUNG Eui-yong
Chairman of the Standing Committee,
ICAPP

Excellency,

It is my pleasure to invite you to the 29th Session of the Conference of the Parties to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (COP29/CMP 19/CMA 6), taking place from 11 to 22 November 2024 in Baku, Azerbaijan.

Climate change continues to deeply affect our daily lives and represents a major threat to global prosperity. Tackling this crisis is not only a shared responsibility but also a moral duty and a crucial opportunity for advancing sustainable development.

In this context, COP29 represents a critical juncture in our collective response to the climate crisis and its devastating consequences. Given the latest science and the year's agenda, it is essential that COP29 tackles such fundamental and pressing issues, with a particular emphasis on climate finance. The COP29 Presidency has outlined a vision to enhance ambition and enable action to keep 1.5 °C within reach. Our objective is to agree on the New Collective Quantified Goal on Climate Finance for the post-2025 period, addressing the growing needs of developing countries in their fight against climate change.

We are calling on all stakeholders to come to COP29 ready to make new commitments and expedite the fulfillment of existing pledges, in line with the goals and principles of the Paris Agreement.

This endeavor is an investment in our shared future and a collective responsibility to both current and future generations.

We kindly request that you confirm your participation by replying to this email at pc@cop29.az. Should you have any questions or need additional assistance, please do not hesitate to reach out to us at the same email address.

We look forward to meeting you at COP29 in Baku.

Sincerely,

Mukhtar Babayev
Minister of Ecology and Natural Resources
